Describe your ideal customer and the property they own.*

Our ideal customer is an established homeowner or property owner who values quality, reliability, and professional communication over simply finding the lowest price. They typically own a well-maintained residential or commercial property and want a dependable company to handle ongoing maintenance, landscape improvements, drainage issues, or property upgrades.

For residential work, we primarily target middle- to upper-income homeowners with established properties who are willing to invest in keeping their property attractive, functional, and professionally maintained. Many of our ideal clients are busy professionals, families, retirees, or homeowners who simply prefer to have their property handled correctly without having to manage multiple contractors.

For commercial work, our ideal clients are business owners, property managers, HOAs, and facility managers who value consistent appearance, dependable scheduling, and long-term property maintenance relationships.

Write the exact phrases customers use when they call or text. *

"I need someone to redo my landscaping."

"My flower beds are overgrown and need to be cleaned up and redone."

"I want to completely refresh the landscaping around my house."

"I need new landscaping installed in my front yard."

"Can you remove the old plants and redesign my landscape beds?"

"I'm looking for a landscaper in Baton Rouge."

"I need a landscaping company near me."

"I have standing water in my backyard and need a drainage solution."

"My backyard holds water every time it rains."

"I need someone to fix the drainage around my house."

"Do you install catch basins and underground drainage pipe?"

"My yard needs to be graded so the water drains properly."

"I have low spots in my yard that stay wet."

"I need someone to level and grade my backyard."

"I need mulch or pine straw installed."

"I want decorative rock installed in my landscape beds."

"I need someone to clean up and restore my flower beds."

"I'm looking for a reliable lawn service."

"I need someone to maintain my property year-round."

"Do you offer monthly property maintenance?"

"I'm looking for a lawn service that handles everything and bills me monthly."

"I need weekly lawn maintenance in University Club."
"I'm looking for a landscaping company that services Highland Road."
"Do you service Shenandoah?"
"Do you work in Bocage?"
"I need a landscaper in University Club Plantation."
"I need commercial lawn maintenance for my business."
"I'm looking for someone to maintain the grounds at our commercial property."
"Can you give me a quote for mowing our office/storage facility?"
"Do you offer annual commercial property maintenance contracts?"
"I need Christmas lights professionally installed."
"Do you install and take down Christmas lights?"

Why do customers pick you over the next company? Three real reasons, not "quality and service."*

We make property care simple and predictable. Clients can use recurring maintenance agreements, scheduled service, automatic billing, and clear scopes of work instead of constantly calling to schedule the next visit.

We can maintain the property and improve it. In addition to routine maintenance, we handle landscape renovations, drainage and grading projects, installations, and seasonal services—so clients don't have to coordinate several different contractors. We operate with a professional process from quote to completion. Customers receive written estimates, defined scopes, organized scheduling, digital approvals, and professional follow-up so they know what is being done, what it costs, and what happens next.

The most common hesitation or objection you hear before someone books.*

The most common hesitation is price. For recurring property maintenance, some customers compare us to lower-cost lawn providers or hesitate at committing to an annual agreement until they understand the convenience of consistent scheduling, predictable billing, and having their property professionally managed throughout the year. For landscape renovations, drainage, grading, and installation projects, the hesitation is usually the overall investment or comparing our proposal against a lower-priced contractor. We do not position ourselves as the cheapest option. Our goal is to provide the best overall result through proper planning, professional communication, quality materials, attention to detail, and a solution designed to last rather than simply offering the lowest bid.

From these options what do you most want a viewer of your site to end up doing? Rank these: call, submit a form, text, book online.*

Submit a form, Call, Text, Book online

Before you can quote or schedule a job, what do you need to know from the customer? List the questions you ask on the phone. These become the fields on your forms, so be specific.*

Before quoting or scheduling a job, we typically ask:

What is your name?

What is the best phone number and email address to reach you?

What is the property address?

Is this a residential or commercial property?

What service are you interested in?

Other

Tell us a little about what you would like done or the problem you are trying to solve.

What would you like the finished property/project to look like or accomplish?

Can you upload photos of the property or problem area?

How soon are you looking to have the work completed?

As soon as possible

Within 2–4 weeks

Within 1–3 months

Just gathering estimates / planning ahead

Is there anything we should know about property access, gates, pets, HOA requirements, utilities, drainage easements, or other site conditions?

Then I'd have the form automatically ask additional questions depending on the service selected.

For recurring residential/commercial property maintenance:

“What areas of the property need to be maintained?”

“How frequently are you looking for service?”

“Are you currently using another lawn or property maintenance company?”

“Are you interested in an Annual Property Maintenance Agreement with predictable monthly billing?”

“For commercial properties, what type of property is it and who is the property/decision maker?”

For landscaping/installations:

“Are we renovating existing landscaping, installing new landscaping, or both?”

“Are there existing plants/materials that need to be removed?”

“Are there any particular plants, materials, colors, or styles you want?”

“Would you like mulch, pine straw, decorative rock, edging, or other features included?”

For drainage/grading:

“Where is the water collecting?”

“When does the drainage problem occur?”

“How long does water typically remain after rainfall?”

“Do you know where the water currently drains?”

“Are gutters/downspouts contributing to the problem?”

“Have any drainage or grading repairs been attempted previously?”

For Christmas lights:

“What areas would you like decorated?”

“Are you interested in roofline lighting, trees/shrubs, columns, walkways, or a combination?”

“Is there accessible exterior power near the areas being decorated?”

One field I would consider adding but not require is:

“Do you have an approximate investment range in mind for this project?”

Then give ranges such as Under $1,000 / $1,000–$2,500 / $2,500–$5,000 / $5,000–$10,000 / $10,000+ / Not sure yet.

For ProGround, I would use that primarily for landscape, drainage, grading, and installation leads, not lawn-maintenance leads. It can help you distinguish someone looking for a $300 patch job from someone ready for a $7,500 property improvement before you spend an hour driving out for an estimate.

The most important fields are service needed + property address + description of problem/desired result + photos + timeframe.

Do you want customers scheduling themselves on a calendar, or would you rather they request a time and you call back to confirm?*

Have customers request a preferred time, then ProGround confirms the appointment. i want them

Five to ten questions customers ask you most, with your real answers. Short and plain is fine. These become your FAQ content, which both Google and AI assistants pull from directly.*

What areas do you service? We serve Baton Rouge, Denham Springs, Prairieville, Shenandoah, Central, Walker, and surrounding communities. Do you offer both landscaping and property maintenance? Yes. We provide landscape renovations and installations, drainage and grading solutions, recurring property maintenance, commercial grounds maintenance, and seasonal services. Do you offer recurring lawn and property maintenance? Yes. We offer Annual Property Maintenance Agreements for residential and commercial properties with scheduled service and predictable monthly billing. How much does recurring property maintenance cost? Residential maintenance agreements start around $145 per month. Pricing depends on the property size, service frequency, and services included. Commercial properties are quoted individually. How much do landscaping and drainage projects cost? Every property is different, so project pricing depends on the scope, materials, access, and site conditions. We provide a customized estimate after evaluating the property. Do you provide free estimates or consultations? Yes. Customers can request a consultation or estimate through our website, by phone, or by text. Do you work on drainage problems and standing water? Yes. We evaluate drainage issues and provide solutions such as catch basins, underground drainage pipe, grading, and other improvements based on the property. Do you work with commercial properties? Yes. We provide recurring grounds maintenance and property improvement services for businesses, offices, storage facilities, and other commercial properties. Do I have to be home when you provide service? Not usually. For recurring maintenance, we can service the property without you being home as long as we have access. For project consultations, we may recommend meeting with you first so we fully understand what you want completed. Are you the cheapest landscaping or lawn company? We don't try to be the cheapest. Our focus is providing professional communication, dependable service, organized project management, and work that is completed properly and built to last.

Meet the Owner- Andrew Lee. ProGround Land Management was started with a simple goal: build the kind of landscaping and property maintenance company I would want working at my own home. I'm a local business owner based in Denham Springs, and I'm still personally involved in the day-to-day operation of the company — from meeting customers and looking at projects to estimating, planning jobs, and making sure the finished work meets our standards. I've always believed that good business comes down to doing what you say you're going to do, communicating with people, and taking pride in your work. Whether we're maintaining someone's lawn, fixing a drainage problem, or completely renovating their landscaping, I want customers to feel comfortable knowing who they're working with and confident that their property is being taken care of. ProGround is growing, but I never want us to lose the personal side of the business. Our customers aren't account numbers — they're homeowners, families, business owners, and neighbors throughout the communities we serve.

Great price

Highly recommend! They were professional, responsive, and incredibly easy to work with from start to finish. I simply shared a few photos and described what I wanted, and they took it from there. I received a quote the same day, the work was completed within a week, and the results exceeded my expectations. They even provided after-care instructions for the new plants. I'm so impressed with their professionalism, communication, initiative, and the quality of their work. I wouldn't hesitate to use them again!
